

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An Internet banking center (center) is established which mediates between fund transfer utilizing business enterprises and a fund transfer dealing financial institution system, and fund transfer fee databases of customers and a beneficiary's account database in which a beneficiary's account fee for each of customers is stored are held in the Internet banking system. The remote maintenance of the fund transfer fee databases is carried out from the financial institution side, while with respect to the beneficiary's account database, each of customers maintains a part thereof associated with himself/herself.